

A new book from the publisher of WorldECR

Towards a Deeper Understanding: Next Levels in US Export Controls

Consultant Editor: Matthew Goldstein
ISBN: 978-1-7396115-0-7
No of pages: 220

Since 2011, DC Houghton, publisher of WorldECR has established itself as the world's foremost publisher of business-focused content relating to US and international export controls.

Towards a Deeper Understanding: Next Levels in US Export Controls collates and updates key content from past issues of WorldECR – and adds new chapters, specially commissioned for this publication. The book will be essential reading for compliance practitioners and their advisors seeking a deeper insight into key (and tricky) concepts in US export controls (and their real-life applications) including:

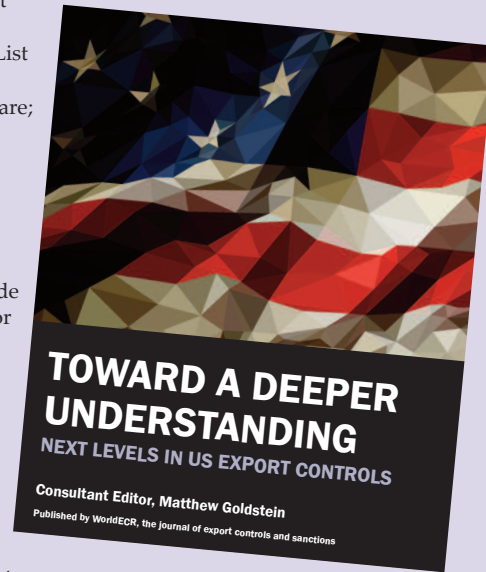

- Compliance approach
- Technology Controls
- Reexport Controls
- Commodity Jurisdiction
- Human Rights

- Interplay of CFIUS and Export Controls
- Getting on and off the Entity List
- The Notorious P.130
- Industry control issues: Software; Pharma
- Audits & Investigations
- Disclosures and Enforcement
- And more.*

With 20+ chapters written by acknowledged experts in US trade controls, this book is intended for experienced professionals in industry and their advisors looking to enhance and expand their existing understanding of the complex underpinnings of what is now regarded as a linchpin of US national security.

About the Consultant Editor

Matthew Goldstein is a partner at the Washington DC office of the law firm Akerman. Matthew, who regularly advises both US and foreign companies on export control and related matters, is a former member of the US Department of State, Bureau of Political-Military Affairs, Defense Trade Advisory Group (DTAG).

Order your copy today

Towards a Deeper Understanding: Next Levels in US Export Controls costs £95 + postage. To order your copy, please visit www.worldecr.com/books

